

CV vs. Resume Guide

What is the difference?

- CV is Latin for Curriculum Vitae (course of life). In the U.S., a C.V. is an exhaustive academic summary used for applications for roles in academia, scientific research and medical fields. In Europe, Ireland and New Zealand, the term CV is used to mean the same as a “resume” in the U.S.
- Resume is derived from the French word résumé, meaning summary. It’s a formal document that expresses an individual’s career background, achievements and skills using a chronological, functional or combined format.

What are the hallmark characteristics of a CV?

- CV is a detailed description of all the academic activities and accomplishments you have accumulated during doctoral study, and includes extensive information about academic experience, including degrees, teaching experience, research, awards/honors, professional associations/licenses, publications, presentations and other achievements.

What are the hallmark characteristics of a resume?

- A resume is a strategic, targeted and concise overview of the most relevant skills, achievements and experiences that relate to the particular career or position to which you’re applying.

What are some differentiating factors between a CV and a resume?

- A resume is typically shorter — one-to-two pages at most — and will dedicate more space to your work and research experience. It focuses less on academic awards, conference presentations and publications.
- Depending on your intended reader, your resume will likely go into less detail on the specifics of your research, presentations, publications and teaching topics. Instead, it will highlight the transferable and relevant skills you developed through this work.

When should I use a CV?

- For academic jobs, a CV allows people in your field to understand and appreciate the specifics of your research and your accomplishments.
- If you’re applying for a non-academic job where people doing the hiring will have a background similar to your own — such as a research institute or a research position in industry — then your academic CV is likely fine to use.
- Your CV should highlight all of your academic experiences and accomplishments, but be sure to explore your specific discipline’s preferred format as they can differ.

When should I use a resume?

- If you’re applying for positions in industry for which a Ph.D. isn’t necessarily required, then you’ll likely want to use a resume. For most non-research-oriented, non-academic jobs, you will want to use a resume that is one or two pages. Recruiters typically do not have time to read a CV.

What is an appropriate format for a resume?

- If you are a doctoral candidate applying for jobs that require a Ph.D. — or if you are being recruited because of your Ph.D. — then a two-page resume is fine. However, if you will be applying for positions in consulting, finance or technology, a one-page resume is recommended.
- Stick to a common font like Arial, Cambria or Calibri. Font size should be between 10- and 12-point, and kept consistent throughout the document. There are many formats you may use, but it is important to be comfortable with your final document.

CV vs. Resume Breakdown

	Academic CV	Resume
Audience	Academics	Recruiters and hiring managers
Target Organizations	CVs are used in academic and in research-oriented job searches	Resumes are used for business, nonprofit, government and other private industry positions
Goal	Present a full history of your academic credentials - research, teaching, publications, honors/ awards, and service	Prove through action-oriented accomplishment statements and metrics that you can do the job well and possess experience that shows your background/experience is well-aligned with the position(s) of interest
Focus	Academic achievements and scholarly accomplishments	Skills and accomplishments that can be used in business, nonprofit, government and other types of job searches
Length	Flexible	One or two pages is preferred depending on industry
Publications	Include all publications	If relevant to the work that you're applying to do, include selected publications
Honors/Awards/Affiliations	Include all academic honors/awards and affiliations	Consider minimizing, deleting or incorporating this section into the education section of your resume to allow for space to focus on transferable skills
References	Always include	Do not include

RESUMES/COVER LETTERS

RESUMES

A resume is a brief summary of your qualifications, education, and experiences relevant to your job search objective. The purpose of a resume is to obtain an interview. Employers will spend less than 30 seconds reviewing your resume; therefore, the information must be conveyed in a clear, well-organized style. The sections of a resume are listed below.

Your Name
Email address
Phone number

Current Address
Web page and/or LinkedIn address (if pertinent)

Permanent Address (optional)

Objective

This section is optional. The objective can include the specific position you are seeking, skills you wish to use on the job, field or organization type by which you wish to be employed, or a combination of all of the above.

Education

This section should include:

- Name of the degree-granting institutions; List most recent first.
- Degree received and major
- Graduation date or projected graduation date, or dates of attendance if a degree was not completed
- Overseas academic experience

Optional:

- Any minors, specialization or focus areas
- Courses relevant to the position for which you are applying
- Honors and GPA (if they are a strong selling point). Indicate GPA based on a 4.0 scale.
- Senior research/honors thesis title and brief description
- Freshmen and sophomores can include high school

Experience

List most recent experience first. You should include:

- Title of the position
- Name of the organization and location (city and state)
- Dates, including month and year
- Descriptions of responsibilities beginning with action verbs (avoid phrases such as “duties included”)
- Believable, verifiable accomplishments
- Paid jobs, internships, volunteer community service, academic/extracurricular projects involving teamwork or leadership, special academic research or honors projects
- You may choose to divide your experience into two or more sections. Possible section headers might include Research Experience, Teaching Experience, Leadership Experience or Volunteer Experience

Additional Information

This section could include computer skills, languages, volunteer work, sports, and interests. If one of these areas is relevant to the job, however, you may choose to put it in the “Experience” section. You may also choose to use more specific section headers such as:

- Skills
- Activities
- Interests
- Honors and Awards

Sample Objectives

- A position as an editorial assistant.
- Electrical engineering internship.
- To obtain a position in finance.
- A program coordinator position in a community organization working with youth.
- Seeking a position in museum administration requiring strong writing skills and a background in art history.
- To apply decision and systems analysis to strategic planning in the telecommunications industry.

TIPS FOR CREATING A SUCCESSFUL RESUME

Do's

- Do design your descriptions to focus on your accomplishments, using action verbs to clearly indicate the skills you've used. See Sample Action Verb list on the next page.
- Do try quantifying results in your descriptions, such as "Created marketing campaign that increased club membership by 25%."
- Do keep your resume brief enough to fit on one page (or two pages if your experience is extensive).
- Do print your resume on good quality bond paper, either white or conservative tones. If printed on plain computer paper, copy onto good quality bond paper.
- Do accompany your resume with a cover letter in most cases.
- Do have others look over your resume for content and grammar. Career Counselors are available at the career center to critique your resume.

Don'ts

- Don't make your margins and font size too small: margins no smaller than one inch and font size no smaller than 10 point.
- Don't include personal pronouns (e.g. I, me, we).
- Don't include personal information, physical characteristics, or photographs on your resume. However, individuals from other countries may include these on their resumes.
- Don't include the last line: "References available upon request" (see Sample Reference List on page 45).

Other Tips

- It is more appropriate for freshmen and sophomores to include high school experiences. However, important high school experiences that have some relevance to your job objective may be appropriate for upper classmen.
- For International Students it is sometimes a disadvantage to include your non-immigrant visa status or permanent address (if outside the U.S.) on your resume. Usually your visa status should be discussed later during the interview. If you have obtained permanent residency or U.S. citizenship, it might be to your advantage to list the information on your resume.

RESUME FORMATS

There is no single way to format your resume. The format you choose should present your strengths clearly. See sample formats and layouts on pages 30 - 43.

Chronological Format

This format is most familiar to employers and most commonly used by Stanford students. This style of resume presents your experience and education in reverse chronological sequence, starting with the most recent. Date, job title, organization's name, location and a description of your activities are listed as part of the experience section. This format is simple, straightforward, and especially useful for anyone with a history of directly relevant experience.

Functional/Skills Format

This format focuses on areas of skill and can be effective in conveying your strengths to an employer, although many employers are not as familiar with this format as with the chronological or combination format. This style of resume draws attention to accomplishments and highlights your skills by function rather than your work experience and is more commonly used by people with very little formal work experience or are returning to the workplace after being away or otherwise involved.

Combination Format

This format is appropriate when you have relevant work experience for each of several skill areas and combines both the chronological and functional formats. This style allows you to group your experiences or key selling points together by functional areas (such as Research Experience and Teaching Experience), and then list those experiences in reverse chronological order within each section. It is also a familiar format to employers.

SUBMITTING RESUMES VIA EMAIL

Send your resume as an attached file and paste the text into the body of the email. Having your resume in the body of the email as well as an attachment gives the employer the opportunity to see your resume in the event they cannot open your attachment or do not take the time. Use a simple format for the resume you put in the body of the email: left justified, no bold, no italics, no underlines, no tabs. See Sample Electronic Resume on page 44. Don't forget to include a cover letter in the body of the email too. If you have your resume in a PDF file, you can also attach that with your email. The PDF version will allow the employer the opportunity to see your resume in an attractive format, utilizing bold and underlines.

When emailing resume files, name them so the employer can easily identify them as your resume. Last name, followed by first name and the word "resume" is most helpful.

Emailing Resumes

- Don't forget to include a cover letter in the body of the email.
- When emailing resume files, name them so the employer can easily identify it as your resume. Last name, followed by first name and the word "resume" is most helpful.

Resume Databases

- Companies sometimes use applicant tracking systems and resume databases. Resumes are searched for keywords, which indicate skills, education and knowledge areas the employer is seeking.
- Every occupation and career field has its own jargon, acronyms and buzzwords—these are helpful keywords to use. In addition, if you are responding to a specific job listing, integrate words from the listing into your resume and cover letter.

COVER LETTERS

The cover letter provides you with an opportunity to introduce yourself and state your objective, personalize your resume, and highlight information that addresses the needs and interests of the employer. Bear in mind that letters you write not only convey your interest and qualifications, but also give the employer an opportunity to observe your attentiveness to detail, spelling, grammar, and the overall quality of your written communication. Flaws in your letters will often be interpreted as flaws in your qualifications.

Dear Mr./Ms. Last Name:

Opening Paragraph:

What is your intent in writing this letter? What position are you applying for and how did you learn about it?

Briefly introduce yourself, your major, and the degree anticipated. If you are aware of a specific opening, refer to it. If you are not aware of a specific position, state your area of interest. This paragraph can also be used to refer to the individual who recommended that you contact the organization, or other factors that prompted you to write. If possible, convey why you are interested in the organization and anything you know about their product or service.

Second Paragraph:

What are your qualifications? Why do you want to work for this organization? What would you enjoy doing for them? Sell yourself and be brief. Whet the employer's appetite so that he/she will want to read your resume and schedule an interview.

Describe highlights from your background that would be of greatest interest to the organization. Focus on skills, activities, accomplishments, and past experience you can contribute to the organization and its work. If possible, demonstrate that you know something about the organization and industry/field. Use action verbs that describe relevant skills and expertise you can contribute. Mention specific knowledge you may have such as computer applications, foreign languages, lab techniques, writing and editing capabilities. You are attempting to create a match or "notion of fit" between the employer's hiring needs and your interests, experience, and skills.

Third Paragraph:

What is your plan of action? Do you want to follow up with a phone call or do you want them to contact you?

Close your letter by stating that you would like to discuss employment opportunities or other information with the individual and that you will call to follow up on your letter. This demonstrates your initiative and follow-through and will help you maintain some control of your efforts.

Other points that can be made in the last paragraph:

- Express your willingness to provide additional information
- State a specific time when you will follow up by phone or email
- Let them know if and when you are going to visit their area
- Thank the person receiving your letter for their time and interest

Most importantly, remember to address the cover letter to a person. If you do not have a name, call the department or human resources to find out to whom your letter should be addressed. As a last resort, address your letter to the personnel manager, hiring manager, or recruiting representative.

Sincerely,
Your First Name and Last Name

- Resumes are only as good as the letter accompanying them. So make sure that you spend some time on your letter and direct it to the appropriate person.
- What you write and how you write it tells potential employers a great deal about your professionalism, competence, and personality.
- In a job search aimed at business and professional circles, proper procedures and communication etiquette are important.
- A cover letter should entice an employer to want to take action on your resume. It should persuade the employer to invite you for a job interview.

TIPS FOR CREATING AN EFFECTIVE COVER LETTER

- Collect your thoughts. Your ideas may not come out logically or sequentially, but write them down. Don't judge and evaluate, simply collect them.
- Spend time on your letter. As the adage goes, "With part-time effort, you get part-time results."
- Write a draft, let it cool off overnight, and then rewrite if necessary.
- Use a strong close, e.g., "After you have had an opportunity to review this letter, I will call you..." Avoid weak endings such as "I look forward to your reply" or "Please call me at your earliest convenience."
- Limit your letter to one page; a letter is an opportunity to sell, so say something about you, while also focusing on the needs of the employer. Write the way you talk. It should be well-worded, concise, and controlled in the use of the pronoun "I".
- While a general cover letter can be used, best results come from personalizing each letter to fit the specific circumstances, position, or organization.
- Ask for opinions, advice, and feedback from friends, a counselor, or someone in the profession. Check spelling and grammar.
- Avoid cluttered desktop publishing. Business letters should look conservative. If you want to be creative, do so in your choice of words. It should be aesthetically appealing with careful attention to spacing and format. Use letter-quality printer paper or high-quality bond paper. Stick with white, ivory, or off-white.
- Remember to sign it personally and include your telephone number and email address.

- Don't use someone else's letter. If you are using the same letter for several companies, remember to change the name in the body of your letter.
- Devise a system to keep track of the follow-up steps you will take and the responses you receive. Most students have found that binders or file folders for organizing the job search and its correspondence are essential.
- Follow up, follow up. People will call you, but you'll improve your odds dramatically if you follow up your letters with a phone call.
- Don't mark letters "personal and confidential" unless there is a solid reason why a secretary or an administrative assistant can't open them. If your letter is persuasive enough, it will get through.

COVER LETTERS ONLINE

More and more job seekers are asked to send their resumes and cover letters online. These letters are about half the length of a regular cover letter. It is important to mention in your letter how you found out about the position, what you are looking for, and what you have to offer. You might also mention a few key words the organization might want to hear. Most importantly, be succinct. Most experts recommend that you compose your cover letter off-line first before importing it into an outgoing email message.

October 19, 20XX

Ms. Marian Armstone
Human Resources Manager
LEK Consulting
9999 Oak Street
Palo Alto, CA 9003

Dear Ms. Armstone:

This letter and the attached resume serve as my application for the Associate position at LEK Consulting. After speaking with Jo Kimmer at Stanford's Career Fair on October 9, I believe my skills, academic training, and work experience are a good fit for this position.

I will complete a Master of Science degree in Mechanical Engineering in June 20XX. I have developed strong analytical and quantitative skills through coursework in technical, computer science, and economics courses. In addition, my hands-on experience in various internships and student leadership positions supports my qualifications as an Associate.

As an intern at General Motors this past summer, I developed analytical skills by taking measurements on a development vehicle identifying design problems, offering solutions for improvement, and making recommendations in a written report. I was awarded a General Motors scholarship for my exceptional contributions as a member of the S-10 Crew Cab launch team.

At Stanford, I demonstrated leadership ability by serving as the elected president for a service organization with over one hundred active members. In this effort, I honed my ability to make good decisions, plan and organize my time, work well on a team, and have developed sound interpersonal, oral, and written communications skills. Finally, I bring an entrepreneurial spirit and creativity to this position, as evidenced by my experience designing, patenting, and marketing my own product.

I would enjoy speaking with you further to discuss, in detail, how I am a match for the Associate position. I will follow up in two weeks to see if there is additional information you would like me to provide or answer questions you may have (another option: I am eager to apply my energy, experience, and enthusiasm to the work of LEK and look forward to hearing from you soon.).

Sincerely,

John Duncan

Jonson Inc.
123 Fifth Avenue
New York, NY 10019

Dear Hiring Manager:

I am writing to apply for your summer intern position posted on JonsonInc.com. I have experience in fashion journalism through my work with the online magazine One Line to You and have a background in event planning through my work as a Marketing Intern this past summer. Currently, I am a junior at Stanford University studying Communication and International Relations and I plan to pursue a career in fashion upon graduation. Jonson would be a great springboard in achieving that goal.

My passion for fashion and art comes from my grandmother who was a fabric designer in New York during the 1940s and 50s. From her, I learned a great deal about color and design. Since the age of 10, I have been consumed by the industry and have studied Vogue, Harper's Bazaar and Elle magazines. In addition, I analyze and examine the work of designers and follow fashion critics like Suzy Menkes. After beginning to write for the online magazine, One Line to You, I had the opportunity to parlay my depth of knowledge into written pieces about various aspects of the fashion world. My expression through this medium also allowed me to further my education of the industry.

I believe the marketing internship at the San Francisco Symphony best prepared me for the responsibilities of an intern at Jonson. In this position I was trusted with a great deal of responsibility. I wrote newsletters, researched artists to compile performance programs, helped with event planning, ran errands, composed press releases and edited and proof-read written material. Through these tasks I learned the importance of being thorough while working in a fast-paced environment. My attention to detail and organization allowed me to thrive in this context and they will do the same at Jonson.

After reviewing Jonson's spring ready-to-wear collection, I feel it would be amazing to work toward the new creative director Heather London's vision. It must be a very exciting time for the Jonson label.

I look forward to hearing from you in the near future and am available for an interview at your convenience. Please contact me with any questions you may have. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Mr. John Boulton (or if name is not known, "Recruiting Staff")
Director, Technical Administration
Hillview Laboratories
22244 Stevens Creek Blvd.
San Jose, CA 94000

Dear Mr. Boulton:

I appreciate the opportunity to meet with you this coming Thursday to discuss employment opportunities at Hillview Laboratories and to expand on my qualifications for the (title of position). I reviewed your website and literature at the Career Development Center (or Business School Library) and also spoke with Janet Morris, who works at Hillview. Her comments have given me a clearer idea of your R & D efforts and the work with which I might be involved. In particular, I am impressed by your state-of-the-art laboratories and how Hillview has effectively integrated a participatory management style in its total operation.

As my resume reflects, I have previous research experience in the area of... where I... (explain what you did). You will note my graduate work also directly relates to the type of work currently being done at Hillview (Or highlight previous summer experience, coursework, thesis topic, or special skills that may be relevant to this employer. DO highlight or expand on a relevant entry from your resume, but DO NOT simply repeat what is already on your resume.).

Thank you for your interest in my application and your willingness to come to Stanford University for interviews. I look forward to meeting you and discussing how my background and experience can contribute to your work.

Sincerely,

Jason E. Jefferson

Mr. Scott Campbell, Managing Editor
Corpus Christi Caller-Times
P.O. Box 9136
Corpus Christi, TX 78469-9136

Dear Mr. Campbell:

As a result of our phone conversation on January 31, I am sending you my resume as you requested. I have also taken the liberty of attaching a sample of my writing. I was encouraged to contact you after speaking with my high school journalism teacher, Mr. Bill Jenkins, who has ties with Ms. Sally Smith of your organization. As I mentioned in our discussion, I am currently a student at Stanford University and am very interested in journalism, advertising, and graphic design. I am seeking an opportunity to develop and utilize my skills and qualifications in a paid summer internship, doing whatever work possible. Growing up in Corpus Christi, the Caller-Times has always been part of my life. Now that I am older I have come to respect it as a professional service vital to our community, and am now eager to enlist and gain insight into the career I dream of holding.

My passion for journalism has only grown with time. As a Managing Editor of Hoofbeat, my high school's national award-winning newspaper, I collaborated with fellow editors and managed a staff of nearly 30 younger writers as part of the overall process of overseeing production of the newspaper from conception to publication. As my resume indicates, I have demonstrated strong leadership and undergone extensive training through active participation in academic and professional organizations. In my effort to fully develop these important skills, I will continue to serve as a Layout Designer for The Stanford Scientific, the only full-color publication on campus for the duration of this academic year. I hope to gain the position of Head of Production in the years ahead.

In addition to my experience in journalism, my instruction includes coursework in statistics, psychology, and persuasive writing, and experience fielding phone calls and collecting data. My education has honed the writing, planning, organization, and presentation skills that I believe are essential to working in communications.

I am excited about the many aspects of the journalism world and welcome the prospect of discussing opportunities to explore them in your company. I will follow up in a week to answer questions you may have or provide additional information. In the meantime, should you have questions, I can be reached at 650-555-5555 or sjohnson@stanford.edu.

Thank you for your time and I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,

Sarah Johnson

Dr. John Allen, Associate Director
INT Consulting Company
12396 Park Blvd.
Los Angeles, CA 93032

Dear Dr. Allen:

Currently I am a student at Stanford University pursuing a BA degree in economics. I am very interested in business-related careers and am seeking opportunities to develop and utilize my skills and qualifications. I have researched your company and believe that your commitment to excellence and service is in alignment with my career goals and beliefs.

In addition to economics, my academic training includes extensive coursework in the sciences where I’ve developed very strong analytical, quantitative, and technical skills. Through my research, I have cultivated strong planning, organization, and presentation skills that I believe will be an asset in a business environment.

As an Investment Banker Summer Intern at Morgan Stanley, I collaborated with brokers to market online investing, consulted with prospective clients and networked through the internet and other computer software. As my resume indicates, I have demonstrated strong leadership and decision-making skills through active participation in campus organizations. In my effort to continue to develop these important skills, I will serve as a Head Academic Advisor this coming year, teaming with resident assistants and faculty members to plan educational and social programs for freshmen to help them plan their academics and adjust to campus life.

I am excited about the many facets of the business world and welcome the opportunity to discuss opportunities to explore in your company. I will follow up in a week to answer questions you may have or provide additional information. In the meantime, should you have questions, I can be reached at 650-600-0000 or mjohnson@stanford.edu.

Thank you for your time and I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,

Maria Johnson

Ms. Laura Valencia
Manager
Creative Services Department
Putnam, Blair and Associates
12 Front Street
San Francisco, CA 94108

Dear Ms. Valencia:

This June, I will graduate with a B.A. degree in English from Stanford University. I have a strong interest in advertising and will soon seek a position as a Junior or Assistant Copywriter. Robert Blum encouraged me to contact you, suggesting that you might be willing to meet with me and provide an insider's view of how I can best identify employment opportunities in this field.

It may be helpful for you to know that I completed a summer internship in the Marketing Department of a small high-tech company and have worked as the Advertising Manager at the Stanford Daily. I believe that both experiences are relevant to future work in advertising. I have strong writing and communication skills and enjoy working in a fast-paced environment. In addition, working throughout my Stanford career to finance a substantial portion of my education has strengthened my time management skills and determination to pursue and achieve my goals. These skills, together with my passion for photography, fascination with the consumer market, and personal interest in the creative side of advertising lead to my strong interest in this field.

I will be in touch with you by phone this week. At your convenience, I would like to set up a short 20-30 minute meeting with you at your worksite. Any advice or suggestions for my job search are welcomed.

I understand you are busy, and I appreciate your time.

Sincerely,

Amy Chen
